ABOVE SIZE 10

Shoe size in the double digits? Black (and other dark shades) have the same effect below the ankles as above. Another visual shrinker: a substantial vamp (the upper part of the shoe). The less skin that shows, the daintier your feet will appear.

Loft color-block heels, $89.50, loft.com

MICHAEL Michael Kors sport mesh sandals, $165, 866-709-5677 for stores

Charles David leather wedges, $275, charlesdavid.com

CANKLES

Ankle-cinching wraparound straps are the enemy—they'll make your legs look stubby. Your BFs? Slingbacks, slip-on styles like mules, or d'Orsays (the sides of the shoes are cut away, revealing the arches).

Cocobelle leather thongs, $92, shopbop.com

Mark + James by Badgley Mischka nylon and raffia wedges, $245, zappos.com

Joe's fabric sandals, $99, amazon.com

WIDE FEET

Thick straps that fit comfortably across your feet (they shouldn't constrict or pinch) break up the girth. High-coverage sides and shoe styles that angle up toward the ankles help elongate.

BCBGeneration wood and leather platform sandals, $89, bcbk.com

Joe's suede color-block sandals, $175, amazon.com

Blonde Ambition pony-hair sandals, $275, at DNA Footwear, 688-955-7463

LONG TOES

If your five little piggies are accustomed to living on the edge, standard thong sandals only underscore their length. Get the opposite effect with peep-toe styles, toe-ring details, or straps that extend across the toes.

Dolce Vita suede and leather toe-ring sandals, $124.50, dolcevita.com

M.E. suede ankle-strap platforms, $109, miaeshoes.com

L.A.M.B. suede strappy sandals, $225, zappos.com

BELOW SIZE 6

While there's nothing wrong with tiny feet, they can distort your proportions (and look even more Lilliputian if you're tall). Eye-catchers like gemstones, graphic prints, and metallic finishes lend gravitas.

MIA ornamental-stone sandals, $59, amazon.com

Jean-Michel Cazabat graphic platform wedges, $265, 646-669-8508

Boutique 9 metal snake thongs, $130, ninewest.com
